

Are you looking for the quickest and easiest way to charter private flights, especially when you are on the go often, and busy with obligations? Flying private has numerous benefits, and to fully take advantage of them, using an app can help significantly. The following are just some of the many benefits of using an app to charter a private flight:

1. Ease of use when booking

Using an app to charter a private flight means there is no need to call to book your flight or having to pull up an entire website (even if it is a streamlined mobile version). Having the app on your phone's home screen means you can have your private flight booked with just a few taps. There is an app for just about everything these days, which makes certain tasks much more efficient. Apps for flying private are now a part of that as well. Apps for private jet travel are perfect for a busy professional or last-minute getaway.

2. Saves valuable time

Time is money, and your time is valuable. While some people do prefer human interaction when booking travel, it is not always necessary to simply charter a private flight. Utilizing an app means you do not have to wait on the phone or explain what parameters you need for your getaway. Everything is at your fingertips and in your control, saving you time. It also means you can quickly charter a flight while you are somewhere it may not be feasible or appropriate to speak to someone on the phone.

3. An easier way to explore remote destinations

When traveling on a private flight, you have access to airports that commercial airlines do not.

Although an app isn't a requirement for using one of these airports, an app can be a useful tool for easily exploring the thousands of destinations and airports at your disposal. Whether looking for a remote island vacation or skiing at a location off the grid, an app can make it all more accessible.

4. Spur-of-the-moment travel is easier

Maybe your Friday meetings were canceled for the afternoon, or you decided at the last minute to take your significant other or group of friends on a long weekend trip. An app makes spontaneous travel easier. Whether sitting at brunch with friends or on the couch with a special someone, you can just pull up an app, pick your destination and charter your private flight. There is no waiting for a live person or combing through flights online. Nothing kills the spirit of spontaneous travel like having to overly plan it.

5. A simple way to handle commercial airline cancellations

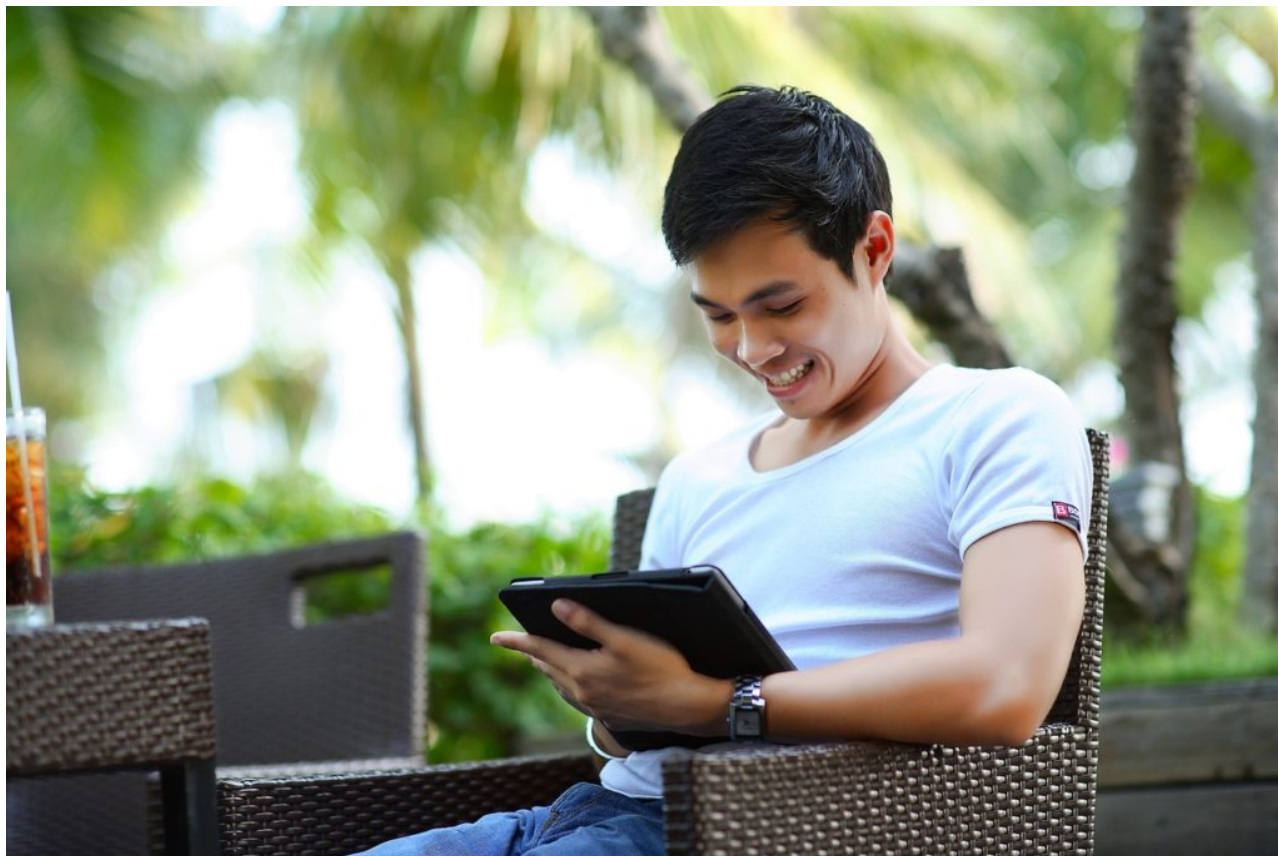

It happens a lot with commercial air travel, and flying business or first-class doesn't help much when flights get canceled. Especially nowadays, it is common to see hundreds of flights canceled in one day by a single airline. An app used to charter private flights allows you to circumvent that hassle. If your commercial flight gets canceled, all you have to do is pull up the available private flights for the day and book. You can take that commercial airline credit, pick up your luggage and go. Although your initial plans may not have included flying private, if you need to quickly make alternative arrangements, this is one of the best ways to do so.

6. Easily change your plans

Life is constantly throwing wrenches in plans, and this is especially the case with travel plans. It can be a hassle to make these changes when they come up. An app can take the frustration away by allowing you to change flight dates and times easily. If something comes up and you need to fly out the following day instead of the evening, or maybe come back a day early or extend a trip for a day, an app can have that done in just a few taps.

7. Your itinerary is at your fingertips

Gone are the days of paper tickets and computer printouts, which can be a hassle to remember and are likely to get lost anyhow. Pulling up an email booking on your phone can also slow things down, but when you charter a flight through an app, you'll have easy access to your entire itinerary in one easy-to-find location.
