

Flying from San Diego, California: San Diego International Airport (SAN)

Flying to Santa Fe, New Mexico: Santa Fe Municipal Airport (SAF)

Average flying time: 1 hour, 50 minutes

Are you planning a private flight between San Diego and Santa Fe? Whether round-trip or one-way, we're here to help. Charter a private flight today!

About San Diego International Airport – San Diego, California (SAN)

Address:

3225 N Harbor Dr

San Diego, CA 92101

San Diego, located on California's sunny coast, embodies a captivating blend of laid-back beach culture and vibrant city life. Its iconic beaches like La Jolla and Coronado draw surfers and sun-seekers alike, while Balboa Park's lush gardens and cultural institutions offer a taste of history and artistry. The Gaslamp Quarter pulsates with energy, showcasing a dynamic nightlife scene and diverse culinary delights. With its year-round pleasant climate, San Diego invites exploration of its outdoor attractions, from hiking trails in Torrey Pines State Natural Reserve to the stunning views from Cabrillo National Monument. Whether you're strolling along the boardwalk or admiring the historic architecture of Old Town, San Diego exudes a relaxed yet lively charm that captivates visitors.

About Santa Fe Municipal Airport – Santa Fe, New Mexico (SAF)

Address:

121 Aviation Dr., Bldg 3005

Santa Fe, NM 87507

Santa Fe, nestled in the high desert of New Mexico, is a city steeped in rich cultural heritage and artistic expression. The city's art scene is vibrant, with numerous galleries and studios showcasing traditional and contemporary works. The historic Plaza serves as a focal point for local gatherings and cultural events, while nearby attractions like the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum and the Palace of the Governors offer insights into the region's artistic and historical legacy.

Would you like more information about chartering your next private flight? Contact us today and charter your private flight from San Diego to Santa Fe!