

Naples is a municipal airport located in the southwest region of Florida, near local communities, beaches, and residential neighborhoods. It stands tall even after facing challenges of locality and the communities of Naples. Nevertheless, the airport management is taking strict measures to control noise issues. The airport voluntarily follows a curfew from 10 pm to 7 am, and all aviation operations comply with this rule for minimizing noise.

About Naples Municipal Airport – Naples, Florida (APF)

Naples Municipal Airport offers a variety of aviation services, including general aviation and base operations. The locals often refer to it as “the best little airport in the country” because of its promising revenue-generating efforts that benefit the local economy. The airport is sometimes occupied by military helicopters, the Coast Guard, and medical flights.
