Middle River, Maryland, is a waterfront community located just east of Baltimore, known for its maritime heritage and scenic charm. Situated along the Chesapeake Bay, the area offers a mix of suburban neighborhoods, marinas, and natural beauty. Middle River has a rich history tied to aviation, notably during World War II, when it became a manufacturing hub for the Glenn L. Martin Company, which produced military aircraft. Today, the Glenn L. Martin Maryland Aviation Museum celebrates this legacy, offering visitors a glimpse into the region's pivotal role in aviation history.
